

Meeting Summary

Smoke from hundreds of wildfires in Canada is triggering air quality alerts throughout the US. Skylines from Maine to Maryland to Minnesota are gray and smoggy. In some places, the air quality warnings include the warning to stay inside.

The levels outside right now in Baltimore are considered unhealthy. Most of that is due to what's called particulate matter. Exposure to those high levels can lead to a host of health problems. Will we be seeing more of these kinds of wide ranging air quality consequences?